SENATOR GREEN ARRESTED.

ACCUSED OF COMPLICITY IN POS-TAL FRAUDS.

Two Indictments Found, One Charging Green With Giving Bribes to Beavers to Purchase Time Recorders and the Other Accusing Green and Beavers of of Entering Into a Conspiracy.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 19.-Senator George E. Green, president of the International Time Recording Company and chairman of the Republican County Committee, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Charles S. Hall at noon to-day on two indictments recently found against him by the Federal Grand Jury in Washington. Knowing that the warrant was ready to be served, Senator Green met United States Marshal S. Foster Black in the office of Assemblyman James T. Rogers, one of Mr. Green's attorneys, and surrendered. He was at once taken before Commissioner Hall and was held for a primary examination next Tuesday, Police Commissioner Jonas M. Kilmer, the millionaire patent-medicine man, becoming his bondsman for $10,000.

Senator Green pleaded not guilty to both indictments, with the privilege of withdrawing the plea and interposing such objection as shall be desired after a careful review of the indictments. Attorneys John B. Stanchfield of Elmira and Theodore R. Tuthill of this city have also been retained by Mr. Green.

Commissioner Hall disagreed with the New York Commissioner in the Beavers case by holding that Mr. Green is entitled to an examination before he can be held for the Federal Court at Washington: that the indictment is not primary evidence, and that the Government must produce proof outside of the indictment in order to hold him.

The warrants were brought to the city this morning by Post Office Inspector William S. Mayer of Chicago. One of the indictments is against Senator Green and George K. Beavers jointly, and charges them with conspiring to defraud the Government in the purchase of time recorders for the Post Office Department. This indictment is in twelve counts and charges that Senator Green, as president of the International Time Recording Company, on Nov. 1, 1901, entered into a conspiracy with Beavers whereby Beavers was to receive a commission of 10 per cent. of the purchase price of every time recorder bought for the Post Office Department. Nine of the counts of this indictment make specific charges that at nine different times, from Dec. 9, 1901, to Oct. 9, 1902, Senator Green had checks ranging from $318 to $1,042 made out to him by the International Time Recording Company and that he in turn gave his personal checks for the same amount to Beavers. It is charged that these checks were drawn on the Central National Bank of New York, were deposited by Senstor Green in the Knickerbocker Trust Company and that he then drew checks on the trust company

The other indictment is in four counts and is against Senator Green alone, charging him with bribing Beavers to purchase time recorders for the Post Office Department. It specifies four transactions and charges that Senator Green drew checks on the Seventh National Bank of New York, ranging from $325 to $842, in favor of Beavers. These transactions are alleged to have occurred between Dec. 11. 1901, and Oct. 8, 1902.

"Well, I hope it does, so as to get this suspense over. He takes his arrest cheerfully, saying:

"Because some of those fellows want me to die is no reason for me to be dead." After his arraignment he gave out the following statement for publication

To those to whom I am best known I hope it is unnecessary to say that I have not given or received bribes: that I have wronged no man, much less the United States Government or any department thereof. All my business has been conducted openly and honestly, and no mean advantage has been taken concerning contracts, orders, prices or otherwise, either by myself or by any business interests with which I am connected i have no criticism to offer, and only wish

To my knowledge I have never brought distress or the shadow of a reflection to the political party to which I am pleased to own illegiance, and now that my good name and reputation are so conspicuously challenged just as the primaries are on, and when my friends are urging my return to the Broome County Republican Committee, I must insist upon completely withdrawing and retiring from the Republican organization, at least until such time as I am legally free and clear from any imputation of dishonest and dis honorable actions.

While his bond was being signed, Senator Green laughed and joked with the newspaper men and others in the office of United States District Attorney George B. Curtise, in which the arraignment occurred.

Senator Green has been chairman of the Broome County Republican Committee for eight years and served two terms as Mayor of Binghamton. He is the general manager of the Yaqui Paper Company of Mexico, with offices in New York; is the owner of the Doremus Stamp Cancelling Company of Washington, which has figured prominently in the recent Post Office Department investigations; is the president of six or eight tlarge industrial corporations, director in about a dozen others. and in many ways has for years been the

An emphatic denial was secured from an authority in the Post Office Department this afternoon of the oft repeated report that Chairman Dunn of the New York State Republican Committeee was connected with the Bundy time clock frauds. It was authoritatively stated that the most careful inquiry had failed to furnish any substantiation for these statements. It is not denied at the Post Office Department nor at the District Attorney's office, how ever, that further indictments may be expected as a result of the investigation of the Bundy time clock contracts.

The indictments read: "George E. Green,
George W. Beavers and other parties unknown," and the Post Office inspectors are working to secure additional evidence to lay before the Grand Jury. No intimation can be secured as to the identity of the unknown parties, save that a Departmen officer remarked to-day that eventually some one "higher than Green" would be landed in the drag net.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN.

New York will have to pay more in future for the $400,000 worth of Austrian bentwood furniture which is imported each year. The Board of Reappraisement had a heavy advance in duty imposed on goods brought from Austria recently. Some of the advances were beyond 55 per cent, which is the seizure point. The Austrian Government has made representations to the State Department, but the higher appraisement stands.

Away down below Aqueduct, half a mile back on the meadowland, an energetic real estate agent erected a monster sign. The storm of Wednesday carried the sign two miles away and left it upright against a pile of wreckage in Jamaica where it sticks up out of the water, like a message from the heart of the bay, announcing

In Wednesday's storm a man stood in the shelter of a niche in the Postal Telegraph Building and seemed hugely to enjoy the accidents that other folks suffered. He laughed so that the tears ran down his cheeks, and his happiness attracted at-tention. As the storm ceased he stepped from his shelter daintily and attempted to cross Broadway. He had scarcely moved before the rain came down with renewed fury. In an instant his umbrella was wrecked and his derby lost in the park He didn't laugh then.

TEAM FALLS INTO THE SUBWAY. Trolley Collision Threw Them in and Made a Lot of Trouble.

A team attached to one of James Ever ard's brewery wagons collided yesterday with a Lenox avenue trolley car at 136th street, and the horses were hurled into the subway ditch. The driver was unhurt.

One of the horses landed on the roo of the subway, which is four feet below the trolley tracks, but the other tumbled to the bottom of the ditch. Workmen go one horse out easily, but they telephoned to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to come and help the other.

The society men walked the horse through

GUESSING AT A NEW CABINET. EXCURSION STEAMER BURNS.

MEN FRIENDLY TO CHAMBER-LAIN LIKELY TO GO IN.

Doubt That the Reconstructed Cabinet Will Be Short Lived-When the Break Occurs. It is Predicted. Chamberiain Will Come Out on Top.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN LONDON, Sept. 19 - Not since the resignation of Prince Bismarck has a resignation caused such a stir in Europe as that of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain from the British Cabinet. Since it was announced it has been and is the leading topic of the Continental press, while in Great Britain nothing else is written or talked of.

Every writer and every reader in England o-day is a maker of Cabinets and a politial prophet

The events following Monday's Cabinet meeting have created an entirely new condition of things in English politics. Old party lines and divisions have been obliter ated and out of new ones will be developed England's future scheme of political organi-

It is impossible for the present for the numerous groups to maintain individual existence. The Unionist free traders, "retaliatory protectionists" and Unionist Unionist preferentialists, each with the counterpart in the opposite party, must soon shake into place, as did the disorganized parties after the great split on Home Rule.

But whatever may be developed in the future out of this extraordinary situation which cannot be gauged by conventional rules, there is one thing generally admitted that is, that Mr. Chamberlain up to the present moment has played the winning

Of his most powerful opponents in the Cabinet two have already resigned and two have proffered their resignations. In the Cabinet he leaves a Prime Minister who openly declares himself on the side of the Chamberlain policy and remains in office to make the way straight for it.

There also remains in the Cabinet Austen Chamberlain, the former Colonial Secretary's son, who by common consent is expected to become Chancellor of the Exchequer in the reconstructed Cabinet.

When that reconstruction has taken place it is unlikely that it will be found that new elements have been introduced hostile to Mr. Chamberlain. If the Marquis of Lansdowne and Secretary of War Brodrick are sacrificed to universal clamor the Cabinet will be strengthened in the eyes of the country, and there is little question of the Cabinet then being an instrument of Mr. Chamberlain.

It is suggested in several quarters, notably by the Standard, which is strongly opposed to Mr. Chamberlain's policy, that Lords Milner and Cromer should be added to the Cabinet. Lord Milner, in particular, is suggested for the Colonial Office. That would mean that another powerful friend of Mr. Chamberlain would hold a great office, but Lord Selborne is considered more likely to succeed Chamberlain at the Colonia! Office.

He is also a strong follower of Mr. Chamberlain. Thus the ex-Colonial Secretary will maintain a strong hold on wo groups, while for the next two months, as a loval but independent supporter of the Government, he will devote his unmuzzled energies to the conversion of public opinion to his policy.

What will be the immediate fate of the reconstructed Cabinet seems doubtful. There is little doubt, however, that it will ment in the spring is looked forward to. Chamberlain, so far as can be seen at present, holds the winning cards.

Lord Salisbury's and Mr. Balfour's ernment remained in office chiefly for the mere reason that the opposition could offer Chesterfield speech, declared that what was wanted was a possible alternative to the then Government

The Opposition has not yet provided it. Mr. Chamberlain is now creating it. There are two courses open to Mr. Balfourto meet Parliament, and to go out on an amendment to the address from the throne. when a general election will follow.

It is not expected that Mr. Balfour will carry the country, but it is plain that a Devonshire Cabinet, or, as some very few and probably mistaken politicians suggest, a Rosebery cabinet equally with a Campbell-Bannerman one, could survive but a few months and would come into office as warming pans for some stable successors. These. as things look at present, would be found in a party that Mr. Chamberlain had gathered around him.

TWO OTHER RESIGNATIONS Tendered by Cabinet Members, but Balfour Refused to Accept Them.

Special Cuble Despatches to THE SUN LONDON, Sept. 19 .- THE SUN correspondent is informed that the Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council and he Marquis of Londonderry, president of the Board of Education, tendered their resignations from the Cabinet concurrently with those of Messrs. Chamberlain and Ritchie and Lord George Hamilton, but that Mr. Balfour refused to accept them. It is not known whether they will press the matter until the successors of their late colleagues are appointed, but if the appointees are pronounced advocates of a preferential tariff it is believed that the Duke and the Marquis will resign.

EDINBURGH, Sept. 19.-Prime Minister Balfour started this morning for Balmoral o submit to the King the names of the new members of his Cabinet.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.-Press and public opinion are unanimous in expressing lively satisfaction over the withdrawal of Secretary Chamberlain from the British Ministry. It is believed here that in him disappears one of the most dangerous political factors against European peace.

THOSE IVORY CHAIRS AGAIN. Mrs. Smeaton is Sure Her Memory Did Not Fall Her, Even in Details.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN LONDON, Sept. 19 .- As was to have been expected, the letter of the Maharajah of Benares explaining the exchange of presents between himself and Viceroy Curzon, by which the latter secured some historic ivory chairs, has not been allowed to pass vithout comment.

Mrs. Smeaton, who brought the matter o light originally, writes to the papers again, declaring that she has proof that her memory did not fail her even in the small details on which the Maharajah made well-meaning attempts to throw an air of doubt with a submissive pen.

While the fact remains that Viceroy Curzon in his private capacity exchanged resents with a native chief, receiving an exquisitely carved suite of ivory furniture. couches, chairs and foostools, and giving rifle in return, the Viceroy sent the furniure to be repaired at the School of Art Supervision instead of to an ordinary up-

The leading Indian journal, the Pioneer, comments strongly on the matter. It points out that even if the Maharajah set particular store on the suite he would not have been able to say so, when the proposal was made to him that he should part with it. It continues:

"It is this reason, of course, that caused the Government to set its face against all private dealings between native chiefs and officers who come into official contact with them. A political officer found exchanging presents with a Rajah would be on the way to serious trouble, and it is evidently expedient that the prime rules of the service should be observed by its

A more reassuring feeling has prevailed here in regard to the situation during the past twenty-four hours. GEORGIA TROOPS FOIL MOB. Governor Acts Quickly and Saves a Negro From Lynching.

ROME, Ga., Sept. 19.-A desperate at tempt was made at 2 o'clock this morning to lynch Albert Going, a negro confined in Floyd county jail, charged with attempt to assault Lessie Peyton, a demented whit girl

About 8 o'clock last night men and boys began to gather at the corner of Broad street and Fifth avenue, and by 10 o'clock the crowd numbered about three hundred Another large crowd gathered in Fifth avenue in front of the County Court House. It was planned that a crowd should gather in another part of the city and at 11 o'clock the jail be stormed.

Sheriff Donehoo notified Gov. Terrell of the situation, and the Governor ordered troops out. A strong guard was thrown around the jail almost before the mob-realized it. The Sheriff said his life had been threatened if he made any resistance. as were also the lives of the other officers they attempted to protect the negro. About 2 o'clock this morning the mob moved on the jail and demanded the prisoner. The Sheriff ran out in the road

"I want it understood that no lynching party can get this negro while I am alive. Any man who attempts to get Going had better make arrangements for his funeral expenses in advance."

He then explained to the mob that there doubt of the negro's guilt, and after further talk he succeeded in getting

WE ANSWER CANADIAN CLAIMS

NO BOUNDARY ARGUMENT THAT HAS NOT BEEN MET.

Struggle So Far Has Centred on Fixing Southern Boundary, and the Line Alleged by Finlay Would Secure to Canada Islands of Strategic Value

Special Cuble Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Sept. 19 - The week's proceed ings before the Alaskan Arbitration Tribuna developed the fact that the Canadians are apparently devoting their utmost efforts to prove their contention as to the southern oundary of the disputed territory.

Sir Robert Finlay, the Attorney-General occupied three out of four days in pre senting arguments in support of the Cana dian claim that the narrow, almost unnavi gable, Pearce Inlet referred to in Capt. Van couver's narrative, alleged to have been known to the negotiators of the treaty of 1825, is the southern boundary, and not the broad channel which Vancouver in his map designated as Portland Channel.

The importance of this claim is manifest for success on this point would secure to Canada Pearce, Sitklan, Wales and Kannag hunut islands, which are of great strategic value as commanding Port Simpson, which will be the terminus of the new trans-Canadian railroad. Canada has heretofore made out a strong case on this point, and has been supported by numerous maps.

The United States denies the contention and rests for support on the map of Vancouver, excluding his narrative, which, t is contended, was unknown to the negotiators of the treaty. Sir Robert Finlay has heretofore devoted little attention to the great question of the boundary of the lisière. He has discussed at some length the definition of "coast, but has barely touched the general question

The task of handling this point has not been made easier by Lord Alverstone's suggestion that the Attorney-General should not only demolish the contention of the United States, but should also indicate how the boundary of the territory should be drawn.

Sir Robert Finlay has not as yet advanced any argument that has not been foreshadowed and anticipated by the Ameri can counsel. He has sprung no surprises and for every argument he has adduced the Americans feel that they have ade quate answers ready.

The Canadians display great energy in securing publicity of the proceedings, having comprehensive résumés of each day's argument prepared for the Canadian press by Mr. Pope, one of the assistant secretarie of the tribunal.

The Canadians do not seem oversan guine as to their prospects. One of their ounsel when asked to-day for his views in regard to what points the Canadians might consider that they had made in the argument so far said: What's the use? It would not affect the

MR. DILLINGHAM'S LITTLE JOKE. He Manages a Surprise at the Reunion of a Husband and Wife.

Cynthia Brooke, the English actress who has come here to act with Julia Marlowe. is in private life Mrs. Frederick G. Latham: and her husband is producing, as the theatrical phrase goes, "Fools of Nature," in which Miss Marlowe is to appear. Mrs. Latham has been acting in Australia for the last two years and her husband knew that she was to join him in New York, but knew nothing more of her intentions.

He was, in fact, looking about him to decide in what way she should make her first appearance in this country. There was a part in the play he was rehearsing which he thought would suit her admirably, but he had been told by Charles B. Dillingham, manager for Miss Marlowe, that the actress for that rôle had been selected. Ten days passed and the rehearsals went on, but the actress did not put in an appear-Mr. Latham jost all patience and one day blustered into the manager's office with more than his usual energy.

"I tell you, old man," he said to Mr. Dillingham, "it's out of the question to go on rehearsing the second act without the woman who is to play the part opposite Miss Marlowe. We must have her or the rehearsals might as well cease. When will she come to rehearsals and who is she?"

Mr. Dillingham looked as imperturbable as usual under this outburst. "Oh, she'll be here at the end of the week." he answered. "I've engaged an English actress for that part." "Well, has she got the manuscript?" Mr.

Latham asked, discouraged. "She'll have to be up in her lines by the time she gets

Mr. Latham, who rarely shows feeling lost his mask of British reserve and looked stonished and delighted. A BANK CLERK'S FARMING. Profits of a Commuter in New Jersey From an Acre of Garden Truck.

Here is a record at farming of a young married man who works in a New York bank and lives in a pretty little Jersey town. He has a cosey house on the out skirts of the town, about ten minutes' walk from the station, on a lot 60x200.

Directly back of his lot there is a field of excellent land, about one acre in extent, which he leases very reasonably from the farmer to whom it belongs. He is able to leave the bank at such a time that he reaches home about 5:30 o'clock each evening. Then he begins his agricultural labors in the acre

In the spring of 1902 he planted the whole of his acre to garden stuff, such as string beans, peas, lettuce, radishes, &c., being careful that one half of the plot was devoted to the extremely early varieties. These early varieties were ready for the market and all sold by the middle of July, when the farmer had that half of the land cleared of the vines and plants, ploughed and thoroughly fertilized.

He had contracted early in the season with a nearby farmer who went in for strawberries to supply him with shoots, and as soon as the half field was ready he set out hese strawberry plants. Last spring his berry vines were in bearing, and he harvested a big crop of choice strawberries. The other half of his field he planted to extra early garden stuff this spring, and had his crop all gathered and marketed by July 15, and then had this portion ploughed up and fertilized. On this he set out strawberry shoots from the old plants, which had just finished bearing for the season. He then had his old bed ploughed up, and on the land he set out celery plants which he had raised in cold frames. It will thus be seen that the banker-farmer will obtain two crops from his acre field this summer, and every summer here after that he follows this plan. Where he had bearing strawberries this spring he now has a fine lot of celery, which will comnow has a nne lot of celery, which will command a good price about Thanksgiving, and where he gathered his early crop of vegetables he is growing a new berry bed, which will yield a handsome crop of choice berries next spring.

Now, for the monetary side. He receives about 70 cents an hour for his work in the bank—actual working time—so, for every hour that he spends in his garden he charges hour that he spends in his garden he charges up against it 70 cents. He also charges up every cent of cash outlay he makes for it, and gives the garden credit for all stuff he consumes in his own home at regular market prices, and also for all cash received for produce sold.

Last year his net profit from his garden was $184.30. This year his profit so far is card the colory is as yet unsold. He was $134.30. This year his profit of art is $234.65, and the celery is as yet unsold. He estimates that it will net him about $70.

Thus the scoffers will see that there is more than one side to the picture of suburban living. In short, there is money in it.
The home life and the boon of good health should be enough to draw a married man to the country, but if your nature is somewhat sordid you can have these and at the same time add to your bank account

IN THE KINDERGARTEN

The Grape-Nuts Boy at the Head. A proud mother, whose little fellow eads his class in the kindergarten, says of his babyhood: "My little boy was strong as any child could be up to a year old, when he began to decline. "He grew worse rapidly and in a few weeks was only a shadow, and although infant foods and other prepared foods were prescribed he continued to grow worse. The physician said he would have to have proper nourishment or he would die and he was certainly getting weaker all the time "We had been using Grape-Nuts food in our family, so concluded to try it on the baby. To my surprise and delight he relished it and from that time it became apparent that he was gaining in strength In a remarkably short time baby had recovered his health and by the time he was 20 months old he was completely cured of all trouble. He is now over 4 years old and in the last two years has used Grape-Nuts steadily as a part of his diet, and as a result of the power of this proper food I now have a boy rosier and stronger than the average 4 year old boy and in perfect health.

"He is the youngest in a class of 20 at his kindergarten and in his games and memory work he excels them all. He is certainly a perfect specimen of boyhood now, physically and mentally. All of this I know is attributable to the food Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich.
